OFFICIAL COLLABORATION 2022

ABOUT THE COLLAB

What began with a studio visit and two designers who share a love for color, nature, and sustainability, became an instant friendship ultimately leading to the production of a collaborative body of work for Jonathan Cohen's first pop-up experience in New York City.

The collection of wall sculptures features a combination of upcycled fabrics and cross-cuts of various fruit woods, in addition to high gloss finishing.

All skateboard decks are 32" L x 8" W

ABOUT THE ARTISTS

NYCxDesign's Emerging Designer of the Year Djivan Schapira creates unique works of collectible design that draw inspiration from his split childhood growing up between the French countryside and New York City. The son of a master craftsman, he developed an advanced woodworking practice over the course of 15 years as an apprentice cabinet maker.

In his early 20s, he began experimenting with resins, developing techniques and a distinct style that would become the cornerstone of his artistic output.

Jonathan Cohen is a world-class clothing designer based out of New York, New York. A product of his own cultural heritage with parents from Mexico & San Diego, Cohen's designs feature Mexican prints, patterns, and colors with the laid back ease of the San Diego surf culture and the modern city approach of living in New York.

Having dressed leaders & celebrities around the world, in addition to having a dress in the MET's Dress Collection, the collaboration between these two designers is only just beginning to flourish.
